THE FOURTH AT WOODSTOCK.

Speaker Crisp said that general financial legislation could be depended on and then sat down. Instead of a "long talk," for which he was down on the programme, his talk was very brief.

A reference to President Cleveland elicited great applause.

Congressman Benton McMillian, of Tennessee, the next "long talker," said the doctrine promulgated by the Democratic party had been the mainstay of free government, and had given us that grandest of political institutions. Home Rule, and that greatest of all parliamentarians of the Eastern World had declared that Home Rule was the only rule for Ireland. (Great applause.)

With Mr. Harrison, adversity instead of prosperity came. In the first time of the history of the Government, a deficit occurred in the finances under Mr. Harrison's Administration.

Mr. McMillin was compelled to take an intermission of one minute while his hearers applauded his remarks in praise of Grover "leveland's Administration." The pension roll, he said, would be a roll of honor. Davenportism and bayonets at Federal elections were denounced.

"Repeal the Federal law that allows the interference of courts and bayonets in Federal elections were denounced." GROVER CLEVELAND.

SENATOR HILL'S LETTER.

Senator David B. Hill sent a long communication in which he reviews the present financies situation.

"The critical condition of the country at the present financies is situation." The critical condition of the country at the present time, he says, "awakens the greatest solicitude on the part of every patriotic citizen desirous of its abundant success and prosperity. It also demands from those whom the people have invested with authority the exhibition of the highest statesmanship and the discharge of the most disinterested and intelligent public service."

The repeal of the Sherman act is held to be the first and essential step in the right irection, and he declares it also incumbent upon the approaching Congress to revise our system of Federal taxation.
